January White Goods Sale Still Going On.

We've had people in our store since Saturday that purchased muslin underwear at other places before visiting our house. The contrast between our goods and what they had bought elsewhere at the same price was so great that they straightway went out, returned the goods, got their money back, returned to our store and invested more

We rarely speak about matters of this kind. Sounds like self-praise if mentioned often, but the point we want to impress on you is this: Our January sale is not a day's spurt, or a pretense of selling good muslin underwear or any other stock to fool you with an inferior article; but it has sufficient merit to interest and hold the people of Richmond for some time.

Buyers do not return goods to one store to purchase from another as a matter of sentiment. It's a purely business transaction.

We have other attractions in course of preparation that we'll announce shortly. They'll be extraordinary in scope and value.

We've already given you in these columns some idea of our muslin underwear values, so we'll not mention any prices to-day.

You'll find them plainly marked on the various tables in this department on our

Specials in Notions and Fancy Goods

Our buyer for this department had a busy week in New York, and you saw for yourself the exquisite Neck Ruffs and Jabots that we bought so cheaply and are selling the same way.

They weren't all the nice things he secured, by any means, and to-day he's telling you about a few more.

"Bargains." "Reduced prices," and such terms, have become so common and mean so little in many store advertisements that our buyer was afraid we'd be classed in the same category if he really told you just what some of these articles are reduced from. But that's where the advantage of perfect confidence between buyer and seller comes in-you believe just what we say.

Therefore, when we say our five-inch Fancy Silk Ribbons, including 'Maxim Green," is a 69-cent article that we can sell now for 25 cents, you know it's so. We are the only house in Richmond carrying this shade.

Ladies' $10.00 and $12.00 Raglans, $6.98.

Another consignment of new Oxford and Black Raglans just arrived yesterday from New York. Inspected personally by our buyer, who is still there.

We sold these garments all season at $10.00 and $12.50, but we can quote them lower for the same reason our Jackets, Waists and Skirts are lower-manufacturers closing out-

One advantage you have, of course, in waiting this long for a coat (exclusive of the low price, we mean) is that you'll have practically a new garment for next season.

The saving on the Raglan will purchase a fur collarette, you know.

FIGHT OVER ELECTING JUSTICES

It is Finally Decided to Leave This Mattre to the General Assembly-Much

Debate Over City and Circuit Courts.

The article for the new Constitution in relation to the judiciary system of the State, has been completed by the convention, except section 5, which provides the manner of electing Sup.eme Court judges. This will come up and be deter-mined to-day on a motion made to re-consider the vote by which it was decided that they be chosen by the Legis

There were a great many amendments offered, but few were adopted. One offered by Mr. Moore, of Fairfax, prevailed, fixing the limit of population for new circuits at 40,000, and another by Mr. James W. Gordon was adopted, providing that the orguits small not be reviding that the circuits snail not be rearranged for two years. The manner of electing justices of the peace was left to the Legislature.

Mr. Marshall presented a resolution yesterday which went over, providing for the consideration of the suffrage matter by the convention, to the excussion all other questions, beginning next Wednesday. nesday.
THE JUDICIARY REPORT.

THE DAY IN DETAIL.
The convention mer at 10 o'clock; prayer by Dr. Dunaway, seventy-nine members being present. Mr. Marshall introduced a resolution providing that the convention take up the report of the Committee on Suffrage on January 15th and proceed to consider it to the exclusion of all other questions.

Mr. Thom resumed his argument begun on Tuesday. In opposing the motion to strike out the provision of section 17 requiring that the State shall pay one-half the salaries of judges of the City Courts of the first and second classes, he asserted that there had never been any complaint about the system of City complaint about the system of City Courts. The County Courts had been the cause of complaint. The committee had effected a saving to the counties of $25,000 a year and given them a more efficient system.

NOT WILLING TO PAY.

Mr. Barbour in reply said the objection he had to the report was that while the cities would not accept the Circuit judges and Gemanded judges of their own in additional control of their own in additional dition, they were not willing to pay for the additional judges. Judge George K. Anderson opposed the amendment. He said the trouble was some members were perfectly satisfied at their savings in the counties, bu were kicking up a fuss because the cities were also saving something. In the midst of Judge Anderson's speech, detailing the saving effected by each county and by the cities under the new system, he yielded to a question from Mr. Barbour. This opened a flood of questions, Messrs. Thornton, Thomas Lee Moore, Judge Portlock, Mr. Keell and the property of the property and the property of the property and the property of zell and many others arising in order and declaring that their people were anxious to give up the amount saved to be allowed to get back into their system of monthly courts.

PEDIGO RESOLUTION.

Mr. Pedigo took occasion of the interruption and uproar to offer a resolution providing that the State pay all judges it the rate of $2,500 directly from the treasury.

Judge Anderson resumed his speech when order was restored, and was again interrupted by Judge Harrison, who offered a resolution providing for four-teen judges to hold circuit courts. Judge Anderson again resumed his speech and concluded in a short while. The penuing question was called, but Chairman Hunon asked to be allowed to speak.

He earnestly combatted the charge that counties had been discriminated against in favor of the cities, and showed how since the salaries had been reduced from $2,500 to $2,000, a saving of $36,000 had been effected to the counties each year. He
